Things To Think About

BEFORE YOU BEGIN

If you're considering a dental office remodel or new buildout, you might feel deluged with choices, from big (how many operatories?) to small (how many waiting room chairs?). It's easy to feel overwhelmed about designing your new space, particularly if you've never done it before: how can you anticipate the answers to questions you don't even know to ask?

Creating an office is a huge commitment, so we're here to guide you as you envision your dream space. Here's what you need to consider before your first consultation about your office buildout:

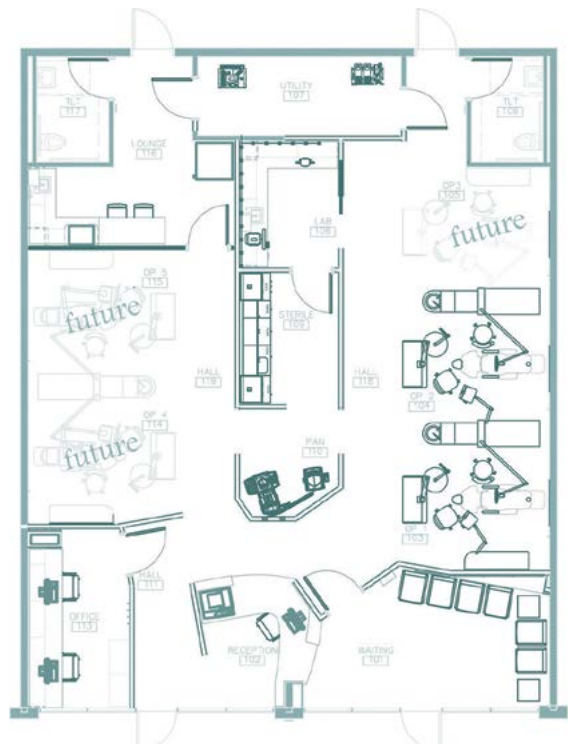

01 Your future goals, both for your practice and your office space. Fresh out of school and just starting your business? Many of our clients in this situation start with just a couple of operatories, then add more once they become busy. On the other end of the spectrum, if you're just a few years from retirement and want to maximize the value of your practice, you'll want to build big in order to make your space more attractive to potential buyers.

SPECIFIC QUESTIONS TO ASK:

- + How many operatories would you like to grow into? Can you plan for more and plumb them for future use?
- + What style of office—modern, traditional, open-plan—fits your design aesthetic? What style will age well?
- + What type of operatories do you like? Open concept with cabinets, all closed rooms, or a combination of the two?
- + Will the mechanical room be in the space or will it be located elsewhere? Will the building utilities need to be included in this room?

~1,942 SQUARE FEET

02 The status of your current equipment. What stays, what goes, and what needs to be purchased? Now's the time to take inventory of your technology, furniture, and tools and critically examine what's outdated, broken, or inefficient.

SPECIFIC QUESTIONS TO ASK:

- + Will you be using a panoramic x-ray? With a ceph? 3D?
- + Are there any specific pieces of equipment you'll want to incorporate into the office space?
- + If you use nitrous oxide, will you plumb it or use a portable solution?

03 Who you'd like on your build team. Some clients already have relationships with local contractors, architects, and interior designers, while others ask us for recommendations. Whomever you choose, we'll helm the team, keeping everyone on task and on budget.

SPECIFIC QUESTIONS TO ASK:

- + What is your experience designing a dental practice?
- + Do you work closely with any other construction professionals in our area?

PLANMECA PROMAX 2D S3

04 The logistics of your workflow. The ergonomics of your operator setups directly impact your long-term health (as well as the health of your hygienists and assistants). One of your most important considerations is where you'd like your handpieces to be: would you prefer rear, side, or chair-mounted delivery? The ideal situation is to comfortably adapt the dental equipment to you, versus adapting you to the dental equipment.

SPECIFIC QUESTIONS TO ASK:

- + Do multiple hygienists use each room, or do they each have their own space that's set up precisely to their specifications?
- + Are you left-handed, and using equipment that's designed for a right-handed situation?
- + Is your tubing getting coiled or draped on patients?
- + Are you concerned that some patients are intimidated by the presence of your instruments?

05

Your practice's particular needs.

Some practices need a large waiting area, while other dentists feel like that's wasted space. Some doctors want their personal office space tucked in the back of their practice, while others like to be front and center. Think about what you love about your current space and what you can't stand; now's your chance to get exactly what you want!

SPECIFIC QUESTIONS TO ASK:

- + Are all the rooms you currently have of adequate size? If not, make a note of the rooms and spaces that need to be adjusted. For example, your sterilization in your current office is too small and we need to double its size in your new space.
- + Will you want or need a consultation room?
- + Would you like file storage in your business office? Will you need storage in your business office?
- + How many workstations are needed in the business office? Will you need a separate financial area?
- + Will you need a large lab or is a small lab adequate?

Make gray go away.

6 Tips to Prevent Gray Market and Counterfeit Product Risks

1. Look carefully for authorized channels.

Only buy products from 3M authorized distribution channels. And always vet new dealers that solicit your practice.

2. Be wary of hard-to-reach businesses.

Avoid businesses that make it hard to talk to a real person or who are not upfront about how they can be contacted.

3. Distributor questions? Ask us.

If you have a question about whether a distributor is legitimate, please contact 3M directly and ask. Call 3M Customer Care at 800-634-2249 or check our website.

4. Avoid deals that are "too good to be true."

They usually are.

5. Train your staff to buy smart.

Train your staff to know who they are buying from, and to avoid compromising quality in their pursuit of cost reduction. Give them a list of your favorite brand's authorized distributors. Teach them to work with authorized distributors to find offers that work for your budget.

6. Keep the idea of cost reduction in perspective.

Saving on your supply expense is minor when you consider the value of your business and your reputation.

AURELIA® GLOVES

f | a | aureliagloves.com

Intelligent.
Intuitive.
Powerful.

Welcome to EDDSON™ dental practice management software. The first software of its kind to be designed and built specifically around the user experience.

EDDSON's innovative design delivers unique capabilities to more effectively and efficiently manage and meet the demands of the busy dental office.

Intelligent

EDDSON was conceived and designed by actual dental professionals with years of in-office clinical and administrative experience. We believe you'll see the difference.

Intuitive

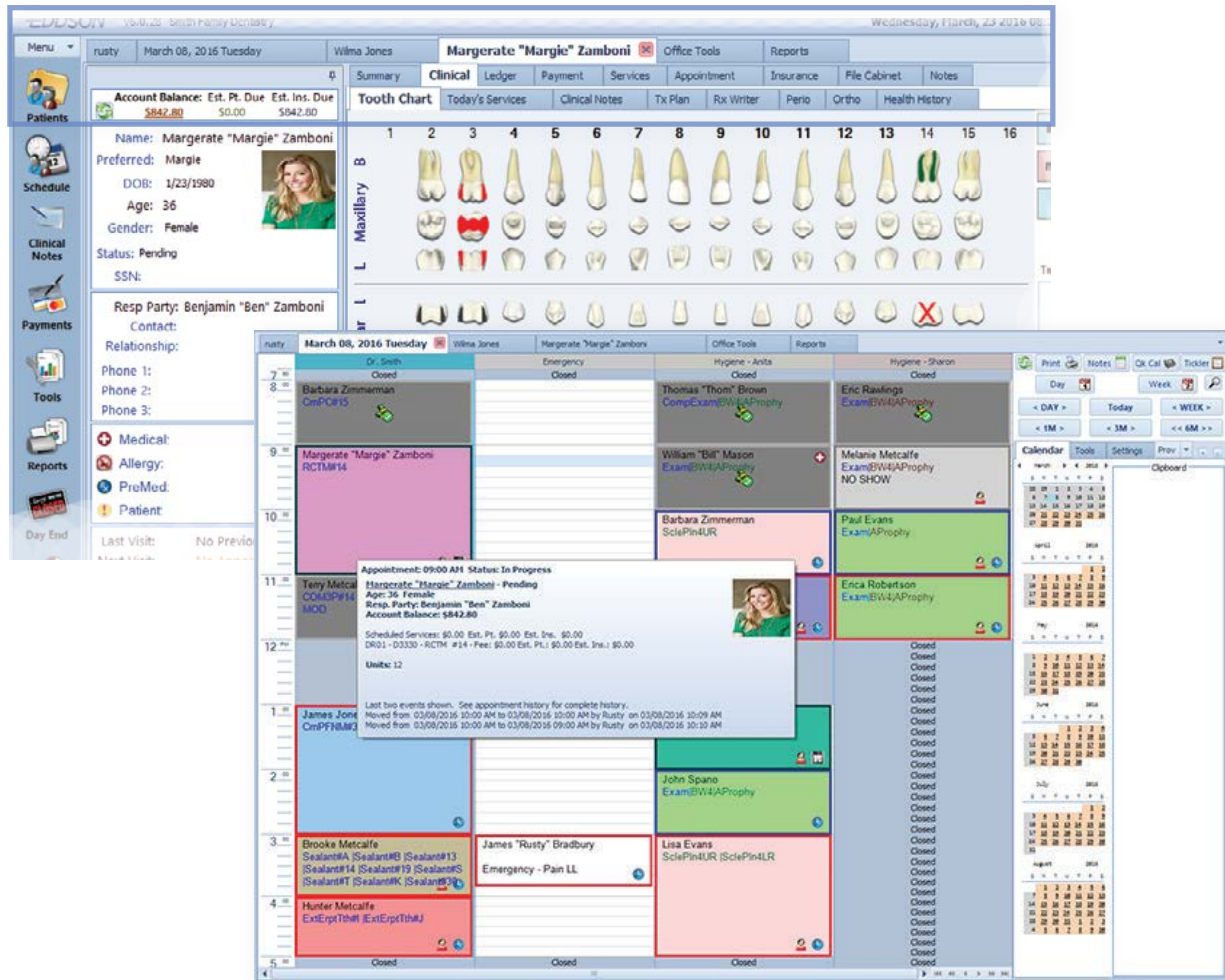

EDDSON's innovative user interface delivers unparalleled ease of use and work flow management. Set up a demo and see it for yourself.

Powerful

Interactive tools for Receivables, Treatment, and Claims management provide functionality and capabilities beyond the simple reporting of other leading applications.

Innovative Tab Based User Interface

- The EDDSON tab-based interface is the key to this design and provides unparalleled functionality while maintaining an easy-to-use environment.
- Unlike the leading PM applications, EDDSON™ users are not committed to "active" windows that must be constantly managed (closed or minimized) before new tasks can be started. Managing multiple tasks and functions in EDDSON is as easy as a single click. EDDSON users can manage up to 7 ongoing patient charts, tasks, or other functions.

The screenshot displays three overlapping windows from the EDDSON software interface. The top window, 'Account Balance Details', shows a table of open items for patients Benjamin Ben and River Zamboni. The middle window, 'Event Ledger', shows a list of events for James Jones, including posted services and insurance payments. The bottom window, 'Accounts Receivable Aging Report', shows a detailed aging schedule for March 28, 2016, with columns for 0-30, 31-60, 61-90, and over 90 days.
